Introduction

College

When Birkbeck College was established in 1823, its principal mission was to provide education and training to working adults who earlier in life had lacked educational opportunity. A College of the University of London since 1920, Birkbeck is committed to the concept of lifelong education, and especially within the world of work. Birkbeck and the other member colleges of the University of London have many research interests in common and share the same standards and degrees structures, but in one important respect Birkbeck is unique. Our mission is ‘to provide courses of study to meet the changing educational, cultural and training needs of adults who are engaged in earning their livelihood, and others who are able to benefit’ (Birkbeck College Charter).

Birkbeck College has built up special expertise in providing a stimulating, positive learning environment for adult, mature students. We have also expanded our provision for full-time postgraduate students. We award undergraduate degrees in a full range of disciplines and have an unusually high proportion of students following taught Masters and MPhil/PhD courses.

Department

History of Art was first taught at Birkbeck by the renowned architectural historian Sir Nikolaus Pevsner who retired from the college as its first professor of art history. He was succeeded in 1967 by the historian of Renaissance art, Peter Murray, who established Birkbeck’s first BA degree in History of Art. Since the 1970s the Department of History of Art has occupied houses in Gordon Square which are associated with the members of the Bloomsbury Group. 46 Gordon Square was the family home of Virginia Woolf, her brothers and her sister, Vanessa, until the latter’s marriage to the art critic Clive Bell in 1907. It was later occupied by the economist John Maynard Keynes.

Since the 1970s the department has grown in size and scope and has established an international reputation for its innovations in interdisciplinary approaches to art history. The Department has an excellent national and international reputation for teaching and research in medieval, Renaissance and modern art history, film and photography history and theory and the study of museum cultures. Our range of interests extends into areas of study such as architectural, design and urban history and issues relating to gender and representation, and interdisciplinary topics, such as relationships between art and film, art and medicine and art and the law.

Our location in Bloomsbury offers excellent access to specialist libraries in the University of London, such as the Institute of Historical Research, the Warburg Institute, the School of Oriental and African Studies and the University of London Library. Our postgraduate students have easy access to specialist art libraries not far from Birkbeck, such as the Courtauld Institute Library, the British Architectural Library, and the National Art Library at the Victoria and Albert Museum.

The great visual resources of the British Museum, the National Gallery, the National Portrait Gallery, Tate Britain, Tate Modern and the Victoria and Albert Museum, of commercial galleries and salesrooms, and of temporary exhibition galleries like the Barbican Gallery, the Institute of Contemporary Arts, the Hayward Gallery and the Royal Academy also make Birkbeck a particular good place in which to undertake study and research in the History of Art.

Programme Description: MA History of Art
Including MA History of Art with Photography Pathway
The MA History of Art and MA History of Art with Photography programmes seek to develop historical and critical skills in the study of selected aspects of the history and theory of the visual arts. The programme engages with an historically wide range of subject matter across art, design, architecture, photography and film. There is an emphasis on historiographical awareness and critical debate rather than on comprehensive survey. The three main taught components of the course – the two Option Modules and ‘Current Approaches to the History of Art’ - are intended to complement each other. The exact relation of these components will, however, depend in large part on each student’s individual interests and intellectual development. As they progress through the MA, students are expected to become increasingly independent researchers. This is reflected in the fact that both the Research Project and Dissertation are largely self-defined rubrics (with guidance from academic members of staff).

‘Current Approaches’ seeks to introduce students both to a range of methodological approaches to art-historical study, and to the range of approaches adopted by various lecturers in their own research. Students also follow a module on Research Skills and Methods in the Autumn and Spring terms. Students choose Option Modules from a range of topics in periods from the medieval to the present day, in which emphasis is placed on the critical debates and problems of interpretation surrounding the material explored. Students on the Photography pathway are expected to choose Option Modules that include or are relevant to Photography. The Research Project offers students the chance to undertake a short piece of independent research, with the emphasis on process and reflection. As an alternative to the Research Projects, every year we organize a series of Work Placements in national and in small, specialist museums; candidates are selected by special application. The programme is completed with a 15,000 word Dissertation on a subject of the student’s choice.

Graduates of the MA will have a sound grasp of art-historical methodologies and will be capable of undertaking independent research. In addition to developing critical skills with written and visual texts, the course offers opportunities to practice oral presentation. Many of our graduates undertake further postgraduate work or progress to careers in arts-related fields.

The programme aims to:
- Enhance students’ understanding of critical debates and traditions
- Encourage intellectually independent exploration of historical and critical issues
- Enable students to develop skills involved in dealing with visual and textual materials.

Completing students will have:
- Developed at postgraduate level their acuity in observing visual culture
- Enhanced their understanding of this visual culture within the social and cultural context of its production
- Engaged constructively in current debates concerning the discipline and its changing nature
- Developed their communication skills, their ability to handle theoretical arguments and to research focused topics
- Taken responsibility for preparing their dissertation, with support and guidance.

Students are expected to attend regularly all ‘Current Approaches’, Option Module classes, Research Skills seminars and Research Project and Dissertation work-in-progress seminars. They are also expected to attend the series of Postgraduate Research Seminars (given by visiting speakers), unless the times of these seminars clash with Option Module classes. In the Autumn Term these seminars will constitute ‘Current Approaches’ classes on two Thursday evenings. In the Spring and Summer Terms, Postgraduate Research Seminars will be held on dates to be confirmed.

Taking a degree course at Birkbeck requires a high level of commitment, and it is important that you attend lectures and classes consistently. In fact, regular attendance is a requirement of every course unit and attendance will be monitored weekly. It is accepted that through illness or exceptional pressure at home or at work you may have to miss occasional classes, but if you have to be absent from several classes, or you know that you are going to have difficulties in attending regularly, please inform the Programme Director as Birkbeck College enforces a 75% attendance policy. We are very sympathetic towards the problems encountered by students and we will do all that we can to help you through any difficulties you may have with your studies. Do please talk to us before you get so far behind that you are tempted to give up.
Compulsory Modules

1. Current Approaches to the History of Art

This module is designed to explore methodologies and issues involved in the current study of the discipline, and introduces you to the range of approaches adopted by various lecturers in their own research. Topics covered have included exhibition and reception; vision, visuality and visual culture; memory and the museum space; photography: histories and theories.

2. Research Project

The Research Project is your first piece of extended, independent research. It draws on the methods, issues and skills that have been raised in the Research Skills seminars and in ‘Current Approaches to the History of Art’. It provides the opportunity to pursue research based on first-hand investigation of a topic of your choice, subject to discussion with and approval from a member of academic staff.

The Research Project is principally concerned with the PROCESS of research rather than solely with the RESULTS of that process. It can be an opportunity to pursue a particular, possibly problematic or uncertain aspect of your planned dissertation research, or a chance to explore an issue related to your work or voluntary experience, for instance. In all cases, the Project should highlight the methodology and should evaluate the various research methods involved. Even if your research proves problematic, therefore, or deviates from its original aims, it is still possible to produce a good Project as you are primarily analysing and evaluating the process of research. Appendices containing correspondence, questionnaires, primary documents etc. may also be submitted as part of the Research Project.

Examples of previously submitted Research Projects are available on Moodle and in the Vasari research centre.

Questions that should be addressed in your Research Project include:

- Why have you chosen your subject and how does it relate to the general field of art history?
- What are the specific aims of your Project?
- What questions is it seeking to address?
- How does the subject of your Research Project relate to a general field of enquiry and relevant publications?
- What methods have you used in the course of your research? Did you need to acquire specific techniques and skills?
- How would you evaluate the different research methods that you have used? If an approach failed, did that have an impact on the overall Project?
- Has your Project changed during the course of your work on it? Was your initial question appropriate and well formulated?
N.B. The Research Project may involve eliciting information and views directly from people such as artists, academics or curators. You must consider the ethical implications before embarking on any research involving human participants. See Appendix D.

Research Projects are supervised by each student's Personal Tutor, who will approve the topic and offer academic guidance. Students will normally have one or two supervisions during the course of their Research Project research and are responsible for contacting their Tutor to organise supervision meetings. Advice and casual discussion on resources and methods is also available by appointment with the Research Skills tutor.

Research Project Work in Progress Seminars You are required to attend a seminar and present the progress on your research project to other students and a member of staff. This is a good opportunity to get useful feedback and advice on your project from both staff and peers. It is also a chance to practice your presentation skills. Full-time students attend a seminar in the Spring term, Part-time Year 1 students in the Summer term. You will be sent your assigned date in advance.

Work-In-Progress seminars can take place at various stages of a project: at the very beginning (when the topic is being formulated); at some point during the research; when the Research Project is at draft stage, etc. In each case, the seminar can offer useful support and suggestions for the work. Presentations must be not more than 10 minutes in length. It is essential that you attend the work in progress seminar. Please get in touch with both the programme administrator and the staff member chairing the session if you are not able to attend on the date assigned.

Alternative to the Research Project: Work Placement module

While most MA History of Art students will complete the Research Project, it is possible to undertake the Work Placement module instead of the Research Project. The Work Placement module is shared with the MA Museum Cultures.

What follows is a summary of the Work Placement module. More detailed information will be made available to those who request it and who opt to undertake it. You can decide on whether to do the Research Project or the Work Placement in the Autumn term.

The placement is located in a museum or gallery or other visual arts institution. Placements are arranged by the Department of History of Art; the selection process is run as a formal application process, similar to the process you will encounter in the professional world.

Placements are usually organised for 2-3 days over a period of three months. In some cases it may be possible to offer or negotiate shorter placements or placements in intensive blocks.

For those who undertake it, the placement acts as a turning point in the course, as you move out of a highly structured academic programme into work in which you will be expected to use more individual initiative and exercise responsibility. It is important that your work is of equal benefit to you and to your host department.
Work Placement Timetable

- Work placement preparation sessions run in the early spring term
- The application and selection process happens in the middle of the spring term
- The placement officially runs during the summer term
- Work-in-progress seminars run in May/June. The seminars offer you the opportunity to discuss your work placement and the aspects you want to concentrate on for your essay.

Assessment: Students are required to contextualise and analyse a particular issue or aspect of their work in relation to museum studies, government and museum policy, and professional literature as appropriate. They are expected to apply historical and theoretical study to practical tasks, and to test the limits of academic learning through practice. The assessment takes the form of a 5000-word essay and a brief summary of their attendance and workload.

3. The Dissertation

The Dissertation offers you the opportunity to undertake a substantial piece of independent research supervised by a member of staff, in an area that is of direct interest to you.

Assessment:

<table>
<thead>
<tr>
<th>Assignment</th>
<th>Description</th>
<th>Weighting</th>
</tr>
</thead>
<tbody>
<tr>
<td>Coursework</td>
<td>15000 Words</td>
<td>100%</td>
</tr>
</tbody>
</table>

The word length of 15,000 words is a maximum; please note that the actual word count should be noted at the end. Footnotes or endnotes, paraphrases, and quotations from primary and secondary literature in the main text are included in the word count but the abstract, appendices of primary sources, tables etc. and the bibliography are excluded.

Presentation

Dissertations should be typed and double-spaced throughout. The pages should be numbered consecutively, including the notes and the bibliography. Paper of A4 size should be used, printed on one side only, with margins of at least 3cm. Two hard copies should be submitted, comb-bound.

You need to provide a c.500 word abstract at the front of your Dissertation. This should briefly explain both your central argument and how it differs from existing scholarship.

You are encouraged to illustrate your Dissertation when your ideas and arguments can be clarified or advanced more forcefully by reference to illustrations of the works under discussion.

Please remember that the presentation of the Dissertation is important, and that a Dissertation that is considered by the Board of Examiners to lack the appropriate scholarly apparatus, or to be unacceptably untidy in its presentation, may be failed or may be referred for the necessary revisions and additions to be made before it can be passed.

Examples of good dissertations are available for consultation in the Vasari Centre.
Timetable for MA Dissertation : The following is a suggested timetable for thinking about and working on your MA Dissertation. There are certain deadlines in connection with the preparation of the Dissertation and these are indicated below.

| Autumn/Spring Term | Beginning of Autumn Term (Second year part-time) | You will be asked to speak to a lecturer or lecturers (of your choice) for advice on framing a possible dissertation topic. If in doubt as to which tutor would be most suitable, contact the MA Programme Director. Based on tutorial discussions, you should begin preliminary research on the MA Dissertation. Provisional title forms will be sent out in November and must be submitted to the course administrator by the end of term. The course administrator will email the necessary form with a reminder of the deadline. |
| | Beginning of Autumn Term (Full time): You will be asked to speak to a lecturer or lecturer as above, after reading week in the Autumn term. Dissertation title forms will be sent out at the beginning of the Spring Term. |
| | N.B. You must consider the ethical implications before embarking on any research involving human participants. See Appendix D. |
| Spring Term | You should continue working on your Dissertation. Make appointments to see your supervisor. You will be notified of the date of your Work-In-Progress seminar by the end of the Spring Term. |
| Summer Term | Student Work-In-Progress seminars on Dissertation topics. This term is mainly dedicated to the pursuit of individual research. NB: Make sure to schedule your last Dissertation tutorial by the end of the summer term. |
| Summer Vacation | Having received tutorial guidance and feedback from your Work-In-Progress seminar, you will work independently on the MA Dissertation over the summer. |
| September | The deadline indicated at the beginning of this handbook is the absolute deadline for the submission of your Dissertation, the official end of the course. In most cases, any extension to the September deadline will mean deferring the MA degree to the following academic year. |

Dissertation Work-in-Progress Seminars
In the Summer Term (of the second year for part-time students) there will be a series of Work-In-Progress seminars on the Dissertation. These form an important component of your study for the degree. They afford opportunities to practise speaking to a group, to develop skills in presenting the aims and objectives of a project (i.e. your dissertation), and to ask advice and receive feedback on your project. All students are expected to participate actively in Work-In-Progress seminar discussions i.e. you are required to attend all your group’s seminars, not just the seminar in which you are presenting your work.
Guidelines for Work-In-progress Seminars
Seminar presentations are not intended to be mini-lectures or accounts of what you intend to say in your Dissertation; rather they set the scene for group discussion, the object of which is to offer feedback on the process of researching and writing. Work-In-Progress seminars can take place at various stages of a project: at the very beginning (when the topic is being formulated); at some point during the research; when the Dissertation is at draft stage, etc. In each case, the seminar can offer useful support and suggestions for the work. Presentations should be not more than 10 to 15 minutes in length.

Points to include in a Work-In-Progress Seminar:
(These are included for guidance but are not prescriptive.)
- Identifying the topic – what led you to choose it – potential interest.
- The questions raised by the topic – the issues you intend to examine/explore
- How you see these relating to the course more generally.
- Projected research/reading - give specific sources/titles where possible.
- Examples of visual material you intend to examine in detail (and why).
- Problems (whether practical or intellectual) – these can take the form of specific questions for the group.

Taking part in a Work-In-Progress Seminar
This is not a passive exercise; seminar discussion forms an intrinsic component of the learning process at postgraduate level. Engaging with other students’ projects is an exercise in thinking through problems and formulating arguments. Take note of how the topic has been presented – are the aims and objectives of the project clear? Has the topic been adequately focused for an essay on this scale? What suggestions can you make, for example, concerning sources, reading, visual examples, and the structure of the Dissertation?

Feedback
Oral presentations are not assessed. In addition to the discussion following your presentation, however, the tutor attending your seminar will send you a brief report summing up the main points raised during the session.

Dissertation Supervision
Each student will be allocated a Dissertation supervisor from among the Department’s academic staff, who will offer guidance on the development of the work. This may be the person who has signed your Dissertation title form, but may be another member of staff with relevant expertise. Students will normally have two or three supervisions during the course of their Dissertation research and are responsible for contacting their Supervisor to arrange supervision tutorials. Supervisions usually start with the framing and agreeing of a Dissertation title and topic and will finish with discussion of a developed plan. Please be aware that, in line with other University of London Departments, your supervisor is not able to read drafts or part drafts of your Dissertation. Please also be aware that the last date for supervisions is the end of the last week of the Summer Term, after which you begin your period of independent study while you write up your work.
Supporting Module: Research Skills

In this series of useful seminars we support the development of research and writing skills suited to the study of History of Art at Masters level. Research is central to your academic work at postgraduate level and will provide challenge and inspiration as well as evidence for proposals and arguments. Writing clearly and effectively, and building convincing arguments are vital skills for your work on the course and beyond.

Research skills are held on Thursday evenings in the Autumn term, after the Current Approaches sessions, from 7.30-9pm. Two further sessions will be offered on Thursdays 7.30-9 in the Spring term. You will be assigned to one of two groups, and groups will meet on alternate weeks as below. You will be informed of your group in advance.

Topics covered in Research Skills will include:

1. Framing research questions
2. The search for sources
3. Structure, argument, clarity
4. Writing, apparatus, presentation
5. The research project
6. The dissertation

While this element of the course is not assessed, it offers vital support for all your assessed work, and students of all backgrounds and levels of confidence in writing and research will benefit from it.

Essay Submission

During the course of the MA you will be required to submit three coursework essays (of not more than 5,000 words each) relating to the three main taught elements of the degree (Core Module and Option Modules), a Research Project report of 6,000 words (or Work Placement report), and a 15,000-word Dissertation.

You will also be expected to prepare and present material in seminars (further details concerning seminar presentations may be given in the module outlines and bibliographies). In the case of the Dissertation, you are required to present one Work-In-Progress seminar paper in the Summer Term before submission.

Procedure for submitting your essays

Please note that this is the procedure for the Department of History Art. If you are taking options from other Departments/Schools different procedures may apply. Please check with the relevant Department/School before submitting your essay.

All work must be submitted via the ‘Turn It In’ essay submission link on the Moodle page of the module in question. In some cases, Tutors will request that you also submit a hard copy.

- All electronic copies or must be submitted by 18:00 on the day of the deadline. Hard copies can be submitted up to 3 days after the deadline.

Essays should always be neatly presented, typed one-and-a-half or double-spaced, with at least one broad margin. Font size should be 12 pt.
Essays will normally be marked and returned within 6-8 term-time weeks from the stated submission date or the date of handing in, whichever is later.

Once an essay has been marked, you will be notified by e-mail that you can access your marks and comments via Moodle and, if relevant, that you can collect your hard copy.

Late submission of coursework

Coursework is not just part of the assessment: it is a vital part of the learning process. Strict deadlines are set to help you to keep up momentum, to spread the demands of the courses you are taking and to ensure that you have time to make constructive use of the feedback on essays. The deadlines also help to even out the marking load in order to make it possible for us to return the essays to you as quickly as possible, so that you can have the comments from one essay before submitting the next.

All Schools and Departments across the College adhere to a system whereby students are not permitted to ask for extensions to coursework deadlines. If for some reason you are unable to submit a piece of work by the stipulated deadline, you should complete a Mitigating Circumstances form: http://www.bbk.ac.uk/reg/regs This form gives you space to describe the circumstances that have prevented you from meeting the deadline, and requires you to provide supporting evidence (such as a medical certificate). It is advisable to discuss the situation with your Personal Tutor before submitting the form, who may add comments to your claim. Mitigating Circumstances forms should be handed in to the Department office at least 7 days before the deadline that is going to be missed. If this is impossible, i.e. if adverse circumstances arise closer to the deadline, preventing completion of the work, then the form should be submitted at the earliest possibility.

When you receive a late submitted piece of assessed work back from the markers, you will find that you have been awarded two grades. This will be the grade the two markers consider the work to be worth and the pass mark of 50% (assuming the other mark is higher than 50%). This 50% will be followed by an L, to signify that this mark is present due to late submission.

When the Mitigating Circumstances Sub-Board has met and considered your form, you will be told which of these marks will stand. If your claim has been accepted, the essay will receive the grade it has been deemed worth. If your claim is rejected, you will receive the pass mark of 50% (assuming 50% is lower than the mark you would have otherwise received).

Non-submission of a mitigating circumstances claim form or submission of a weak claim that is rejected by the Sub-Board will have a serious, deleterious impact upon your overall grade.

Mitigating Circumstances that may be taken into account

These might include major disruptive events or life-changes affecting yourself or those close to you, i.e. new parenthood, divorce, crime, serious illness or operation, bereavement. If a disability or a condition such as dyslexia has been incurred or diagnosed or disclosed part-way through your studies, this should also be notified. If in doubt as to whether the circumstances you have experienced are likely to be agreed as reasonable justification for a late submitted piece of coursework or under-performance, discuss with your Personal Tutor. Your Personal Tutor should, in any case, always be made aware of any difficulties affecting your studies.
Presentation of Written Work, Marking and Plagiarism

Presentation
The following paragraphs provide guidance on some of the main aspects of organising and presenting a scholarly essay or dissertation, but for the widely-accepted conventions on all aspects of presentation you are advised to consult the style guide published by the Modern Humanities Research Association.

Length
Word-limits are always specified in the course materials. They are maximums and should be strictly adhered to. Word limits refer to the main text and include footnotes, but not the bibliography or other kinds of additional material which may be required in longer pieces of work (such as abstracts and appendices). If you find that your first draft is longer than the maximum word-limit allowed you will need to edit down your work, which can be a useful discipline. Ask yourself whether a point is essential to answering the question (some interesting but inessential material may have to go); whether a quotation is essential (quotes from secondary sources seldom are); whether you are over-footnoting (look again at the guidance on footnotes). Please provide accurate word counts at the end of all submitted work.

Quotations
Quotations should be confined mainly to relevant extracts from primary sources. Information and ideas from secondary sources should normally be paraphrased; direct quotation should be made only where the expression is particularly telling. Prose quotations longer than three lines should be indented and should not be enclosed within quotation marks. A quotation occurring within an indented quotation should be in single quotation marks; if a further quotation occurs within that, double quotation marks should be used.

Shorter quotations of less than three lines should be enclosed in single quotation marks and run on with the main text. A quotation within such a quotation should be enclosed within double quotation marks. The source of all quotations must be identified clearly.

Where commentary on, or analysis of, a specific text or texts is a major element of the dissertation it may be appropriate to reproduce such texts in full in an appendix.

References
References must be accurate and complete so that the reader is able to follow up the sources on which your arguments have been constructed and to verify your interpretation of those sources. You must use the standard form of humanities references, that is, giving references in footnotes and bibliography as explained below and in the MHRA style guide. The author-date, or Harvard, system should not be used.

References should be indicated by the insertion of superscript numbers at the appropriate place in the text. These numbers should be consecutive throughout the essay, ignoring sub-divisions, and they should follow any punctuation in the text except a dash, which they should precede. In most circumstances, this means placing a single reference number in superscript after a full-stop at the end of a sentence; multiple references in a single sentence are to be avoided. The numbers may refer to footnotes; placed at the bottom of each page, or to endnotes, which are listed separately, starting on a fresh sheet of paper, at the end of the main text. Please use footnotes in your essays and dissertation – this allows the reader to refer back and forth to your notes much more easily, especially when reading on a screen.
References to Primary Sources
Primary sources which have been published should be referred to in the same way as secondary literature (see below) but where the material remains unpublished it will fall outside the conventions for citing publications. The important principle is to make clear where your information/quotation was obtained e.g. verbal communication from the artist/author, unpublished letter in family or public collection, etc.

References to Works of Art
On the occasion of the first reference to a work of art, the location (Collection) should be given: eg. Rembrandt’s Adoration of the Magi, (London, National Gallery) or the Winchester Psalter (London, B.L., Cotton MS. Nero C.IV), or, in the case of architecture, its topographical location. The titles of works of art (eg. Correggio’s Jupiter and Io, Klee’s Ad Parnassum) should be italicised.

When to Footnote/Endnote
1) When you include a direct quote in your essay. This should be clearly indicated by quotation marks at the beginning and end of the quotation or, if you are using a long passage it should appear as a separate, fully indented paragraph (see quotations above).
2) When you use someone else’s idea or argument in your essay, even if you are not directly quoting from it. For example:
As John Barrell has argued, by the time that Benjamin Robert Haydon was writing in the nineteenth century, it had become difficult to assert that ‘high’ art could fulfil any public function.¹

3) When you draw heavily on factual material provided by someone else in your essay. For example:
Antoine-Jean Gros’s The Battle of Nazareth of 1801 depicts a battle that was hailed as a great victory for the French. Napoleon first announced a government sponsored competition for a painting of the event in 1797, offering 500 Louis as a prize. Gros won with the unanimous approval of the judges.¹

Forms of Reference in Footnotes
Books
A. Author, Book Title (Place of Publication: Publisher, Date)
e.g. W. Chadwick, Women, Art and Society (London: Thames and Hudson, 1990)

Articles from Journals
A. Contributor, ‘Title of article in journal’, Journal Title, Volume Number (Year), pages x-y e.g. H-U. Obrist, ‘Installations are the Answer, What is the Question?’, Oxford Art Journal, 24 (2001), 93-101

Chapters in edited books
A. Contributor, ‘Title of article in anthology’, in Anthology Title, ed. by A. Editor and A. Co-Editor (Place of Publication: Publisher, Date), pp.x-y

N.B. If you are quoting or paraphrasing a particular chapter, page or pages, then you should specify which. You should expect usually to include page number references in this way; they are not required only when the book, article or chapter as a whole is being referred to.

e.g. H-U. Obrist, ‘Installations are the Answer, What is the Question?’, Oxford Art Journal, 24 (2001), pp.93-101, p.95

Online sources

References to online sources must be made with the same care and detail used in references to print sources. It is not adequate to include a URL (website address) only. See the MHRA Style Guide, 3rd ed. (2013), section 11.2.11-15, for detailed guidelines on citing online sources.

URLs/website addresses:

A. Author, ‘Title of Document’, Title of Complete Work [if applicable], Document date or date of last revision [if available], Protocol and address, access path of directories (date of access).

Articles accessed online:

Journal articles accessed online via JSTOR or another database will normally have a stable URL or DOI (Digital Object Identifier), which provide a stable identifier ( unlike the usual type of URL, which often changes). The stable URL or DOI should be given where available; no date of access is necessary. The same format used for journal article citations given above should be used.

e.g.

E-books should be cited in the same way as print books, followed by an indication of the type of digital file, or a DOI if available.

e.g. Maiken Umbach, German Cities and Bourgeois Modernism, 1890-1924 (Oxford: Oxford University Press, 2009), p. 25, DOI:10.1093/acprof:oso/9780199557394.001.0001

Subsequent references to the same publication

Once you have provided the information for a book or article, subsequent references may consist of the author’s surname and the abbreviated title, followed by the page number(s).

e.g. first reference: T. Barringer, The Pre-Raphaelites: Reading the Image (London: Weidenfield and Nicolson, 1998), pp.4-10
further references: Barringer, Pre-Raphaelites, p.2
Avoid the use of conventions such as ibid, and op.cit. If many references are made to specific books, archives etc. it may be easier to provide a suitable abbreviation which should be clearly shown at the beginning of the notes (e.g. PRO for Public Records Office).

Notes used to elaborate
In addition to references, notes may also be used to advantage in order to elaborate, clarify or qualify a statement in the main text or to permit a brief excursus that would otherwise disrupt the text. You should be very sparing in this use of notes and not allow them to be encumbered with material that is not strictly relevant and which should have been excluded.

Bibliography
The bibliography should be placed at the end of your main text. Essays should have a single bibliography with primary and secondary sources listed together. In the Dissertation (and, where appropriate, Research Project) the bibliography should consist of two sections, the first listing any primary sources used, the second listing the secondary literature consulted. All works referred to must be included in the bibliography.

Primary sources may be defined for this purpose as written evidence from the period under study e.g. documents, such as contracts and charters, and literary sources such as letters, chronicles, manifestos and treatises. In studies of recent art, primary sources may include various types of unpublished material including statements made directly by the subject(s) of study.

Secondary sources are books, articles, etc., which have been written about the period or about the primary sources.

The items in the bibliography should be ordered alphabetically according to the surname of the author or editor. As the surname of the author or editor determines the sequence of the bibliography it should precede the forename or initials (whereas in footnote references the name or initials will precede the surname). In all other respects the items should be in the relevant format for book, chapter or article given above. References to specific pages cited are not required in the bibliography, but in the case of articles, the first and last pages should be given.

A Note on Websites and Other Online Sources
There are many excellent resources online, and we encourage you to explore them. It is important to remember that, just as you should with print material, you need to approach online sources critically, evaluating their validity and usefulness for academic purposes. All books and articles published by academic publishers will have been peer-reviewed before acceptance for publication, and this guarantees that they meet academic standards of veracity and argument (even if arguments against them can be constructed, as they usually can). However online material has not necessarily been filtered by the peer-review process, and you should be particularly aware of this. Like books and articles, online sources should be acknowledged with the appropriate reference; see above for guidelines.
Essay Marking Scheme

Students often ask about the difference between an undergraduate and an MA essay. MA essays are expected to demonstrate coherence of exposition and argument as well as a degree of self-reflexivity and awareness of theoretical and methodological approaches.

The following criteria are applied in assessing essays and the dissertation. They are not used as a checklist, but as guidelines for the examiners to ensure consistency in the assessment process. Some criteria will be more relevant to the coursework essays and others to the dissertation, and there will be variations in the extent to which some or all criteria are fulfilled within an MA grade. These criteria are subject to annual review; any changes to them will be incorporated into subsequent Department Handbooks.

Criteria for Assessment (not in order of importance)
- Relevance of answer to topic set
- Coverage of answer with appropriate range of facts and ideas
- Accuracy of information
- Structure and organisation of answer
- Quality of argument, analysis and critical evaluation
- Quality of expression and presentation
- Familiarity with visual materials and ability to comment on them in an informed manner
- Application in research

Weighting of Assessment

- The three coursework essays and the Research Project or work placement report are each weighted equally at 30 CAS points.
- Dissertations are weighted at 60 CAS points in the final weighting of the MA.
- Classification of the degree is based on the weighted average of the marks of the five components with the following qualifications. To be eligible for the award of an MA degree the Dissertation and at least three of the four other components must achieve a pass mark. For a merit class to be awarded the Dissertation must gain a merit mark. For a distinction class to be awarded the Dissertation must gain a distinction mark.

All essays are double-marked and all marks are subject to the adjudication of the MA History of Art External Examiner. The marked essay will include comments on Turn It In (see Appendix B) from the first marker in the general comments section as well as further comments on the text itself (These comments will either be made on the hardcopy of the paper, or on Turn It In.) It is the responsibility of each student to contact relevant lecturers if they have questions concerning the marked essay. If the return of a marked essay seems to be delayed, please contact the programme administrator.

The meeting of the MA History of Art Board of Examiners usually takes place in late November following the submission of the MA Dissertations. The College officially notifies all candidates of their results as soon as possible. The Department is not permitted to release marks in advance of official notification. The marks for individual course-units are revealed only to you and it is up to you whether you discuss them with anyone else. Once the marks have been confirmed by the Board of Examiners and the External Examiner, there is no right of appeal against the results of the examinations on academic grounds. Appeals in respect of individual marks or the final classification can only be made on the grounds of procedural errors in the administration or conduct of the examinations.

Plagiarism

Plagiarism, the act of taking somebody else's work and presenting it as your own, is an act of academic dishonesty, and Birkbeck takes it very seriously. Examples of plagiarism include (but are not restricted to):

- copying the whole or substantial parts of a paper from a source text (e.g. a web site, journal article, book or encyclopaedia), without proper acknowledgement
- paraphrasing another's piece of work closely, with minor changes but with the essential meaning, form and/or progression of ideas maintained
- piecing together sections of the work of others into a new whole
- procuring a paper from a company or essay bank (including Internet sites)
- submitting another student's work, with or without that student's knowledge

</tr>
</tbody>
</table>
• submitting a paper written by someone else (e.g. a peer or relative) and passing it off as one's own
• representing a piece of joint or group work as one's own.

If you knowingly assist another student to plagiarise (for example, by willingly giving them your own work to copy from), you are committing an examination offence.

What happens if plagiarism is suspected?
The College has a three stage policy for dealing with assessment offences. The first stage allows for a very rapid and local determination for first or minor and uncontested offences. Stage Two allows for a formal Department investigation, where a student wishes to contest the allegation or penalty, where there is an allegation of a repeat offence or for more serious cases. Stage Three involves a centrally convened panel for third and serious offences, dealt with under the code of Student Discipline.

What if I am worried that I’m not referencing correctly?
Please see your module lecturer or contact a member of the learning support team as soon as possible. Ignorance of Birkbeck’s commitment to student standards will not be accepted as an excuse in a plagiarism hearing. The following links from Birkbeck's Registry provide some helpful information, but are not intended to replace any guidelines or tuition provided by the academic staff. This issue will also be discussed at Research Skills seminars and workshops.

The College treats all assessment offences seriously. If you are in any doubt as to what constitutes acceptable conduct, you should consult your Personal Tutor or another member of academic staff.

Resubmission of Coursework
If you receive a fail mark on any assessment element (essays, research project/work placement report or dissertation), you are given the opportunity to rewrite and resubmit the piece of work once. Marks for resubmitted coursework will be capped at the pass mark of 50, unless there are mitigating circumstances. (See above under ‘Late Submission of Coursework’ for the procedure for claiming mitigating circumstances.) Please note that this is a new policy, effective from the beginning of the academic year 2015-16. You will be given a deadline for the resubmission and are encouraged to consult with your personal tutor and/or course tutor or supervisor on what is needed for the resubmission.

Common Awards Scheme
The majority of Birkbeck’s programmes are offered as part of the College’s Common Award Scheme (CAS). Programmes will therefore have common regulations, and a common structure. This will help to ensure greater consistency of practice amongst programmes and will also make it possible for you to take modules from Departments across the College which are outside of your normal programme (subject to programme regulations and timetable constraints).

Some areas covered by CAS Regulations include:
- Degree Structure
- Degree Classification
- Module Weighting
Research Ethics
All research involving human participants and confidential materials, carried out by students in the School of Arts is subject to an ethics approval process. This is to ensure that the rights of participants and researchers alike are protected at all times, and to underline our commitment to excellence in research across a wide range of subjects.

If you are undertaking any such research work for a dissertation, project, thesis etc. please complete the form ‘Proposal for Ethical Review template’ and pass this to your academic supervisor. The proposal will be reviewed and assessed as ‘routine’ or ‘non-routine’. In most cases it is envisaged that such work will be routine, and your supervisor will inform you of the outcome. In a small number of cases, the proposal may be referred to the School’s Ethics Committee for further consideration. Again, you will be informed of any outcome.

The proposal form is available through our departmental web pages (current students). If you have any queries, please speak to your supervisor in the first instance.

Further guidelines are available on the MyBirkbeck website at http://www.bbk.ac.uk/rgco/policy/ethics.shtml

Policy on recording lectures and other teaching sessions
The College recognises that there are a number of reasons why students might wish to record lectures and other teaching sessions in order to support their learning. However the content of lectures and other teaching material is covered by copyright, and the privacy of staff and students may be affected by the recording of discussion-based classes. The College therefore has a policy on recording teaching sessions that respects intellectual rights and privacy, while recognising that there are circumstances in which students may need to make recordings for personal use. For full details of the policy - and advice on requesting permission to record lectures - please follow the link below:

London Art History Society Research Fund
The London Art History Society, an organisation affiliated to the Birkbeck History of Art society, has generously established a fund in the department, to assist our MA and MPhil/PhD students with expenses relating to research.

In 2015/16, MA students will be eligible to apply for a sum of money up to a maximum of £150. If you would like to make an application to the fund, then you will need to send in your application to Clare Thomas, the History of Art Team Leader (c.thomas@bbk.ac.uk). This will consist of a full breakdown of the monies requested, and a rationale of no more than 300 words. Any expenses relating to your research are potentially eligible, including travel, accommodation, photography and photocopying.

Please note that you need to submit your application BEFORE incurring the expenses and, if your application is successful, you will be reimbursed AFTER the money has been spent, on submission of receipts.

The fund is limited, and will be allocated through the academic year, starting in October, on a first come first served basis. Once it has been used up, we will be unable to make any further awards until the scheme starts again at the start of the following academic year.
Disability Statement

At Birkbeck there are students with a wide range of disabilities, specific learning difficulties, medical conditions and mental health conditions. Many of them have benefited from the advice and support provided by the College's Disability & Dyslexia Service.

The Disability & Dyslexia Service and Mental Health Service

The Disability & Dyslexia Service is located in the Wellbeing Centre G26, on the ground floor of the Malet Street building.

All enquiries should come to the Wellbeing Centre, who will determine the appropriate referral to specialist staff. They can provide advice and support on travel and parking, physical access, the Disabled Students' Allowance, specialist equipment, personal support, examination arrangements, etc. If you have a disability or dyslexia, we recommend you call us on 0207 631 6316 to book an appointment.

The Disability & Dyslexia Service can help you to complete your Study Support Plan, confirming your support requirements with your School and relevant Departments at the College so they are informed of your needs.

Access at Birkbeck

Birkbeck's main buildings have wheelchair access, accessible lifts and toilets, our reception desks and teaching venues have induction loops for people with hearing impairments, and we have large print and tactile signage. Accessible parking, lockers, specialist seating in lectures and seminars and portable induction loops can all be arranged by the Disability & Dyslexia Service.

The Disabled Students’ Allowance

UK and EU (with migrant worker status) disabled and dyslexia students on undergraduate and postgraduate courses are eligible to apply for the Disabled Students' Allowance (DSA). The DSA provides specialist equipment including computers with assistive technology and training, personal help e.g. note takers, BSL interpreters, specialist tutors for students with dyslexia and mental health mentors and additional travel costs for students who have to use taxis. It provides thousands of pounds worth of support and all the evidence shows that students who receive it are more likely to complete their courses successfully. The Disability & Dyslexia Service can provide further information on the DSA and can assist you in applying to Student Finance England for this support.

Support in your Department

Your Department will receive a copy of your Study Support Plan from the Disability and Dyslexia Service. This will make specific recommendations about the support you should receive from the Department. Whilst we anticipate that this support will be provided by the Programme Director, tutors and Programme Administrator in the Department, they will also have a Disability Lead. If you experience any difficulties or require additional support from the Department then they may also be able to assist you. They may be contacted through the Programme Administrator.

Support in IT Services and Library Services

There is a comprehensive range of specialist equipment for students with disabilities in IT Services. This includes an Assistive Technology Room, which may be booked by disabled students. We have software packages for dyslexic students (e.g. Claroread and Mind view), screen reading and character enhancing software for students with visual impairments available in our computer laboratories, specialist scanning software, large monitors, ergonomic mice and keyboards, specialist orthopaedic chairs, etc. We have an Assistive Technology Officer, who can be contacted via IT Services.

The Library has an Assistive Technology Centre, where there is also a range of specialist equipment, including an electronic magnifier for visually impaired students, as well as specialist orthopaedic chairs and writing slopes. The Disability and Dyslexia Service Office refers all students with disabilities to the Library Access Support service, who provide a comprehensive range of services for students with disabilities and dyslexia.

Examinations and Assessments

Many disabled and dyslexia students can receive support in examination, including additional time, use of a computer, etc. They are often also eligible for extensions of up to two weeks on coursework, which should be requested in writing.
Specific Learning Difficulties (e.g. dyslexia, dyspraxia)
Mature students who experienced problems at school are often unaware that these problems may result from their being dyslexic. Whilst dyslexia cannot be cured, you can learn strategies to make studying significantly easier. If you think you may be dyslexic you can take an online screening test in the computer laboratories, the instructions for the screening test are available on the Disability Office website. If appropriate, you will be referred to an Educational Psychologist for a dyslexia assessment. Some students can receive assistance in meeting this cost, either from their employer or from Birkbeck.

Further information
For further information or to make an appointment to see the Disability & Dyslexia Service, please call the Wellbeing Administrators on 020 7631 6316 or email disability@bbk.ac.uk.

Student Support and Available Resources

Student Support
Study Skills Programmes: As well as more generic courses at College level every Department within the School of Arts has a provision for study and research skills support. These programmes vary as they are targeted at specific degree requirements. Please contact your administrator if you are having any difficulties in completing your coursework. There is help available to you at every point in your degree, and we are more than happy to point you in the right direction. Each student is also assigned a personal tutor.

Birkbeck College Resources

Birkbeck Library: The College Library (http://www.bbk.ac.uk/lib/) has a solid and growing core of books, journals and reference. It is primarily an undergraduate library, but through a careful acquisitions policy we try to provide general resources for MA students (although we cannot guarantee that the library covers all areas of interest and work). Most of our material is for three week loan, but we also have material that is one week loan, one day loan and some material (marked Reference) cannot be borrowed at all.

The long opening hours allow you to borrow books after classes. There is an e-mail and telephone enquiry, online reservation and online renewal service, an online catalogue and the eLibrary gives access to electronic resources such as electronic journals (ejournals), databases and past exam papers.

Should you have any questions about library provision, please contact the Department’s Library Liaison Representative or the Department’s Subject Librarian.

The Library has a separate periodicals, A/V and “Reading Room Collection”. The latter consists of photocopies of articles and essential books which have been placed there at a lecturer’s request and are for reference use only within the Library.

Information about the layout, collections and services, the Library catalogue and access to the Library’s extensive range of electronic resources is via the Library web site http://www.bbk.ac.uk/lib/ It is very important to familiarise yourself with this site. Detailed information about the Library’s resources can be found in the online Subject Guide.

An introduction to the Library and bibliographical skills is timetabled at the start of your course at which you will meet the Subject Librarian who looks after the collection. They will introduce you to the Library and its electronic resources. In addition, the Library has an online tutorial called LIFE (Library Induction for Everyone) which is always available: http://www.bbk.ac.uk/lib/life/ which has a module in it on 'Researching a topic'.

eLibrary: As well as its physical holdings, the Library has a comprehensive range of e-resources including bibliographic databases (which tell you what has been written on a topic), and electronic journals. Most of the electronic resources can be accessed from outside the College using your IT Services username and password. If you did not receive this upon enrolment, please ask for them at IT Services reception (Malet Street).

LAMP: The LAMP Service (LibrAry Materials by Post) is a subscription based service which enables you to have books and photocopies of articles posted to your home address. You may find it particularly useful if you are not able to visit the library frequently. Birkbeck students with disabilities may be able to join the service for free on the recommendation of the College Disability Officer, Mark Pimm. If you think you may be eligible for free membership, please first contact Mark Pimm in the Disability Office.

Interlibrary loans: The College Library also runs an interlibrary loan service to enable you to obtain copies of books and articles not held in its own collections. As it can take a couple of weeks to obtain copies of requested materials, you are advised to plan ahead in your general reading and essay preparation so as to make use of this facility. Please note: a charge of £1 will be made for each interlibrary loan request received and there is a limit of 10 requests in progress at any one time.

Other Resources and Organisations

Birkbeck Student Union: You are automatically a member of the Birkbeck Students' Union, the University of London Union and NUS upon taking up the offer of a place to study at Birkbeck. NUS cards are available online (NUS Extra) or from the Union Office, Malet Street. Application can be made to become a member of the International Students' Association by completing a form that can also be obtained from their shop.

Location and Telephone: Offices on the 4th Floor of the extension building in Malet Street. General Union Office is in Room 456, Tel: 020 7631 6335. Enquiries: info@bcsu.bbk.ac.uk Visit the website at http://www.birkbeckunion.org/

Counselling: The Students’ Union offers counselling free of charge.

Birkbeck Evening Nursery: Birkbeck College has an Evening Nursery, which is available for students and current members of staff and accepts children aged 2-10 years. In exceptional circumstances, children up to 12 will be accepted. However, Nursery Staff reserve the right not to accept older children if they are disruptive. Full details, including opening times, may be found at: http://www.bbk.ac.uk/mybirkbeck/services/facilities/nursery

Career Development: Most students are interested in developing their careers, either within their current field of work or in a completely new direction. The Specialist Institutions’ Careers Service [SICS], part of The Careers Group, University of London, offers great expertise and experience in working with students and graduates of all ages and at all stages of career development. And it’s Birkbeck’s next-door neighbour!
During term-time they offer an Early Evening Advisory Service specifically and exclusively for evening students and a Drop-In Advice Service, which is always very popular with the Birkbeck students.

Longer Advisory Interviews can be arranged if necessary - for complete career beginners, for people wanting a practice job interview, and for every stage and situation in between.

They also offer Psychometric Testing and Personality Assessment Workshops, Employer Presentations, Computer-based Career Guidance Programs, Insight Career Courses as well as invaluable information on Course Funding.

For more information and opening times visit the SICS website at: http://www.careers.lon.ac.uk/sics.

Administrative Information

Enrolment: Important Information
After receiving an offer of a place on the degree course, you need to enrol as soon as possible (see Administrative information, below). For early applicants this option is usually available starting in June, late applicants (those interviewed in September) may experience some delay in receiving their enrolment letters at what is the busiest time of the year for Registry.

The College will expect you to have formally enrolled and to have begun paying your fees by mid-October. You must enrol by the end of October or you may not be eligible to continue your degree.

A student who withdraws after enrolling is liable for payment of fees for the first term of their intended study, and all subsequent terms up to and including the term in which they withdraw or for the full fees due for all modular enrolments (whichever is greater). Fees are not returnable, but requests for ex-gratia refunds of part of the fees paid in cases where a student is obliged to withdraw because of circumstances beyond the student's own control (but normally excluding changes in employment) may be made. All such refunds are subject to an administrative charge of £100, and will be pro-rated to reflect the proportion of a study already elapsed.

Fees/ Finance
College fees may be paid by many methods, The College Finance Office deals with fees and you should communicate and negotiate with them directly on 020 7631 6362. Students who fail to pay their fees may become ineligible to continue the course or unable to submit assessments. Any student who has a debt to the College at the end of the year will not have their marks relayed to them. Neither the Course Director nor any of your supervisors have the power to waive fees or sanction delays in payment.

Contact Details/Email
Birkbeck students are required to maintain their personal details via the “My Birkbeck” Portal (http://www.bbk.ac.uk/mybirkbeck) throughout their period of study. Failure to maintain this information up to date will mean that you may miss important information concerning the course: all documentation, reading lists, class notices, etc, is sent to students via the Moodle e-mail system, as is information about associated events that may be of interest. You may nominate an email via your “My Birkbeck” Student Portal. If you encounter any difficulty with this process please visit the MyBirkbeck Helpdesk in the main Malet Street building. Email is the normal means of communication in the School of Arts.
Location
The School of Arts is housed at 43 Gordon Square, where you will find the Administrative Office and individual staff offices. Teaching often takes place in our building, but your lectures may be held in any of the University of London or University College London buildings. During term time the Gordon Square entrance is staffed from 8.00am to 9.00pm, Monday to Friday. Urgent messages outside these times can be left at the Malet Street reception desk, which is open until 10.00pm.

Moodle (Birkbeck’s Virtual Learning Environment Platform)
You will be expected, throughout your studies, to submit relevant coursework through Moodle, and to use it to access course materials. You will need your Birkbeck College username and password in order to gain access to Moodle. Your username and password are created by ITS and all enrolled students will receive them. You cannot access this system if you are not enrolled. If you do not have your username and password, please contact ITS Reception in the main Malet Street building or by e-mail at its@bbk.ac.uk If you have difficulty using Moodle, please contact/visit the ITS Help Desk where they can walk you through the process. For further information on Moodle, please refer to appendix B.

Academic Staff Contact Details

Contact details and details of research interests of all permanent member of academic staff can be accessed here: http://www.bbk.ac.uk/art-history/our-staff/

Please check office hours with individual staff members. We ask you visit offices only when you have made an appointment. Please ring or e-mail in advance. Staff members are available for tutorials at other times by appointment.

- Staffing is subject to change and listing in this booklet is not a guarantee that a specific staff member will be with the Department in the 2015-2016 academic year.
- There is a research leave policy in the College, which means that all members of academic staff are entitled to one term’s research leave every three years. In addition, members of staff are regularly awarded externally funded research leave, by organisations such as the Leverhulme Trust and the Arts and Humanities Research Council. Therefore, not all academic staff will be present at all times. On such occasions the Department will arrange replacement cover and advise the affected students.
- Please see our website for queries regarding academic staff’s research interests and Departmental responsibilities.
Appendix A: Getting Started with Moodle

Birkbeck uses ‘Moodle’ as its Virtual Learning Environment (VLE) platform. Moodle is used to house course documentation (handbooks, module outlines, coursework, coversheets etc…) materials (readings, PowerPoint presentations, slide lists etc…) and for electronic submission and marking of coursework.

You can access Moodle here: http://moodle.bbk.ac.uk/ To log in you need your ITS username and password, a computer with a connection to the internet and a web browser such as Internet Explorer or Firefox.

If you are having login problems, but your password is working for other services, please change your password via the online form at http://www.bbk.ac.uk/its/password (allow one hour after completing this form, and then log in to the VLE again). If this hasn’t resolved the problem please contact the ITS Helpdesk via email (its@bbk.ac.uk), telephone (020 7631 6543), or in person (Malet St building, next to the entrance to the Library).

Please see below some general information on getting started with Moodle:

Browsing your modules

Once logged in, your screen will be similar to that shown below. There are three columns.

- The right column contains the navigation and settings menu. You can expand or collapse items within this panel.
- The middle column contains announcements and updates about Moodle.
- The right column contains Blocks such as a calendar, online users, etc…
Once you click on “My home” in the navigation panel, you should see the courses to which you are enrolled in “Course Overview” in the middle column.

After clicking on a course title you will see your course in the middle column. As you browse the contents of a module, a breadcrumb trail will appear above the contents of each page, as shown

Use the links therein or the Back button on your web browser to go back to previously-visited pages.

Submitting Assignments

Turnitin is a web-based service that checks for ‘originality’. It is used to check your assignment against other assignments, internet sources and journal articles.

All coursework must be submitted via Moodle.

- Click on the Assignments link within the course module
- You will then see the Summary page with the “Start date, Due date and Post date”. Then click on the My Submissions tab and enter a title and browse for the file you want to submit on your computer. Also, please confirm that this submission is your own work by ticking the box.
- Click on Add Submission.
A window will open with a synchronizing data message. This will close after a few seconds. In the My Submissions tab you will be able to see the new status, showing that your submission successfully uploaded to Turnitin.

Viewing your mark and feedback
If your tutor has marked the assignments online using GradeMark, students will be able to access their grades and feedback through the GradeMark icon. This is found on the My Summary page.

Click on the apple icon and a new page will open which contains your tutor’s feedback and General Comments. You can download your original file by clicking on the arrow on the right.

If you have any difficulties using Moodle please contact either ITS Helpdesk via email (its@bbk.ac.uk) or your course administrator.
Appendix B: Post Graduate Seminars

Post Graduate Seminars

The Postgraduate Research Seminars are organised by the MPhil/PhD tutor, currently Dr. Tag Gronberg.

These Research Seminars offer important opportunities to engage with the most up-to-date research in the discipline. As an encounter with recent research and debates, each seminar will prove valuable even when not on a subject or period directly related to your current interests. Our MPhil and PhD students also attend these seminars, so this is also an occasion to meet other postgraduate students. Presentations are usually informal and chaired by a member of the School’s staff. Students are encouraged to ask questions and participate in the discussion following research presentations.

Dates and subjects of Postgraduate Research Seminars will be available on a separate schedule, which will be distributed at the beginning of the autumn term. If you have any questions concerning these seminars, please contact either the MA Programme Director, Postgraduate Tutor or School Administrator.
Appendix C: Research Ethics

Research Ethics

All research involving human participants and confidential materials, carried out by students in the School of Arts is subject to an ethics approval process. This is to ensure that the rights of participants and researchers alike are protected at all times, and to underline our commitment to excellence in research across a wide range of subjects.

If you are undertaking any such research work for a dissertation, project, thesis etc. please complete the form ‘Proposal for Ethical Review template’ and pass this to your academic supervisor. This form will be available to download from Moodle; you will be sent a reminder email from your course administrator.

The proposal will be reviewed and assessed as ‘routine’ or ‘non-routine’. In most cases it is envisaged that such work will be routine, and your supervisor will inform you of the outcome. In a small number of cases, the proposal may be referred to the School's Ethics Committee for further consideration. Again, you will be informed of any outcome.

Please contact your administrator or your Ethics Officer:
