The guide has been developed by Student Services and is aimed at both academic and professional support staff to advise students about support available to them and how to access services that they might need. The guide cannot address every situation that might arise – contact Student Services on: 020 3907 0700 for other issues.

Meeting with students
If a student raises concerns with you, or if you are concerned, you should invite them to meet you in a safe space where you can tell them what you have noticed and ask them if there is anything they might need to talk about or need support with. Set and communicate time limits for meetings with students and ensure you maintain your own professional boundaries. Be careful not to take the role of a counsellor / friend / parent with students or promise support beyond the limits of your professional role.

Where you have concerns about, or if a student needs help, support or advice with:

- Careers advice
- Childcare
- Dyslexia or another Specific Learning Difficulty (SpLD)
- Emotional difficulties
- General Advice
- International student issues
- IT Facilities
- Library
- Problems with money, funding or finance
- Student accommodation
- Student behaviour, or a student is being disruptive in class
- Student Complaints
- Study skills
- Thinking about withdrawing, interrupting or changing their studies
CAREERS & EMPLOYABILITY

The Birkbeck Careers and Employability Service provides comprehensive careers advice, events and information services for current students, both in person and online.

Workshops and events

Forthcoming events and workshops are listed on the careers Eventbrite Page.

UpSkill: Tech: In partnership with JP Morgan, we bring a range of employers to campus to host a series of events, skills sessions and workshops exploring a diversity of skills, designed to inspire students to pursue careers that matter in technology. For further details please contact upskill-tech@bbk.ac.uk

Enterprise Pathways: Whether you’ve already got a business going, have an idea you’re keen to get off the ground or simply want to learn entrepreneurial skills to excel your career, the programme will support you in your journey through a series of workshops, events, online resources and more. For further details contact enterprise@bbk.ac.uk

Grad Fair: There is an annual Grad Fair that takes place every October for students to meet, network and find out about a range of organisations and opportunities while studying and beyond graduation. Details are available online as well as across the college in the weeks leading up to the event.

Out of hours – from home?

Online services: Students can register for updates on resources, including: career action plans, online CV builder, free webinars, interview simulator exercises and tests, employability skills and e-learning and industry reports. Students access the service by logging in using their student user name and password via their My Birkbeck profile.

Information on Scoop.it: The Careers and Employability team source the internet for articles, opinion pieces and thought-provoking writing on careers and employability each day and bring it all together on our Scoop.it page.

1:1 appointments

The service offers one to one appointments to help students identify information, actions and resources. To book a 1:1 session with an employability consultant, email employability@bbk.ac.uk

The appointments last 30 minutes and take place throughout the week, depending on availability.

Contact Details and Signposting

Twitter hour - 10am-11am on Tuesdays and Thursdays: Students can tweet in their questions relating to careers and employability using the #BirkbeckCareersQandA or sending a direct message to @BirkbeckCareers. The team aims to respond within the hour, but it may take up to 24 hours for a reply.

Visit our Employability Space: Students can browse the resource available online, via our iPads, as well as print material within the area. The Employability Advisor is also available for quick queries within the area. This can include having a CV reviewed for specific roles or to get advice on upcoming interviews. Find us on the ground floor in Student Central on Malet Street.

CHILDCARE

Students may receive funding for childcare from Student Finance England (full-time students) or Birkbeck (part-time students). The College also runs an evening nursery with funded places for students on low incomes.

Government funding

Full-time students can apply to Student Finance England for help to pay their childcare costs when they apply for their maintenance grant. They can get up to 85% of their weekly costs or up to £155.24 per week for one child or up to £266.15 per week if they have more than one child, provided their child is looked after by a registered childminder.

If the student or their partner receive the childcare element of Working Tax Credit or Universal Credit, Tax-Free Childcare from HM Revenue and Customs or Childcare Allowance from the NHS they won’t be able to get Childcare Grant as well, although they can choose to receive Childcare Grant instead of the other funds.

Birkbeck help with childcare costs

Birkbeck may be able to assist part-time Home/EU undergraduate or postgraduate students who are single parents in receipt of Child Benefit and who are on a low income with their childcare costs. Support is not normally given to couples.

Birkbeck’s evening nursery

Birkbeck provides an evening nursery for students, which is open from 5.30pm to 9pm, Monday to Friday.

The Nursery has places for up to 25 children who are aged between 3 and 6 at the start of the student’s course (the nursery will continue to hold a space for children for the duration of the course where needed).

The fees are £15 per evening per child where a parent has booked their place in advance for the whole term. One-off emergency placements are £20 per child per evening.

Single parents on low income can apply for college funds to pay for their nursery fees.

To enrol students should download the nursery application form from the website.

DYSLEXIA OR ANOTHER SPECIFIC LEARNING DIFFICULTY (SPLD)

SpLD is an umbrella term that covers a range of difficulties that people may have with particular aspects of learning and includes dyslexia, dyspraxia, attention deficit disorder (ADD), attention deficit hyperactivity disorder (ADHD), dysgraphia and dyscalculia.

SpLDs vary in degrees of severity. Around 10% of the population has dyslexia and 4% of the population has severe dyslexia. Often people will reach adulthood without being aware that they are dyslexic, and will usually have developed some strategies themselves for compensating for their dyslexia.

Diagnosed SpLD

Where a student has a previously diagnosed SpLD you should ask them whether they have declared their diagnosis on the Disability – Study Support Plan (SSP) section on their My Birkbeck profile. If the student has completed their SSP and have any issues about getting required support in place, they should contact the Disability and Dyslexia Service.

Dyslexia diagnosis

If you suspect a student may have dyslexia that has not been diagnosed, you can recommend that they carry out a dyslexia screening test, called LADS Dyslexia Screening Software, which is available on Birkbeck PCs in the IT Services workstation rooms and the Library.

Students can take the test, usually lasting about half an hour, and the test result will indicate the probability of dyslexia. The categories are "high risk", "moderate risk", "borderline" and "low risk".

The test results are sent automatically to the Disability Service, who will contact the student by email to let them know their results and the recommended action based on their results.

To get started with the LADS software the student should:

- Log on to a Birkbeck PC at a IT Services workstation room or the Library
- Attach headphones
- Click on the Windows Start Menu
- Type LADS into the search box
- Click on LADS Test Module and follow the instructions

WHEN A STUDENT HAS EMOTIONAL DIFFICULTIES

Many mental health symptoms affect us all from time to time such as anxiety, low-mood or feelings of not fitting in. When these feelings become overwhelming or start to have a serious negative impact on a student's studies and day-to-day life, it’s likely that the student would benefit from contacting our Counselling or Mental Health Advisory Services.

What should you do?

Assess whether the student is at immediate risk – do not worry about asking someone if they feel suicidal. There are several warning signs that might alert you to the fact that a student has emotional difficulties, including weight loss or gain, decline in personal hygiene and poor attendance at lectures. Students may also do too much work, become withdrawn, or be more agitated or anxious than usual. Do not ignore any changes you notice in a student. Set and communicate time limits for meetings with students and ensure you maintain your own professional boundaries. It is important to support students to access suitable services.

When a student requires support but is not at immediate risk

Counselling Service: Addresses issues including (but not limited to): anxiety and panic; low mood and depression; bereavement and loss; relationship difficulties; low self-esteem; perfectionism and fear of failure; self-harming thoughts and behaviour; substance misuse; any emotional issues that have an impact upon the ability to study effectively. The counselling service provides a range of self-help leaflets, bibliotherapy resources and links to support websites.

Mental Health Advisory Service: If a student discloses to you that they have a mental health difficulty such as chronic depression or anxiety or other mental health illnesses such as bi-polar disorder or schizophrenia it’s important to make them aware of the support available via the Mental Health Advisory Service.

When a student requires support or is at risk

If you are aware that a student is at imminent risk of hurting themselves or another there are a number of options depending on the situation:

- Ask the student’s permission to contact their GP and book a same day appointment for them.
- Escort the student to the Accident and Emergency Unit at University College Hospital, Ground Floor, 235 Euston Road, London, NW1 2BU. Telephone: 020 3447 0083
- Call an ambulance or contact the Police
- Notify Security within the College on 555.

INTERNATIONAL STUDENT ISSUES

If a student from outside the EU wishes to come to study here, they will normally be required to obtain a Tier 4 (student) visa. Tier 4 visas are not granted for part-time study and students are expected to fund their own studies – they do not have access to student grants or loans or other public funds from the UK Government while they are studying. There are a range of Government requirements that the College must meet to be able to accept and continue to recruit Tier 4 students. There is a detailed staff Handbook on all aspects of Tier 4:

http://www.bbk.ac.uk/downloads/staff-information-downloads/tier-4-compliance-staff-handbook.pdf

Contact details

There are two teams within the College which deal with international students:

International Student Administration (Registry Services):

- Processes all full time international applications and offers
- Provides advice on Tier 4 sponsorship and visa applications to students and staff
- Issues Confirmation of Acceptance of Studies (CAS)
- Manages Tier 4 attendance monitoring

Telephone: 020 7380 3100

The International Office (External Relations):

- This team deals with the recruitment and marketing of international students
- Frequently visit key market countries to increase interest in Birkbeck
- Manages recruitment agents in key countries
- Manages many College scholarships for international students

International students or staff with queries about any of the above should contact:

PROBLEMS WITH MONEY, FUNDING OR FINANCIAL DIFFICULTIES

Students who face financial difficulties may face increased anxiety and may be more likely to withdraw from their studies. Financial difficulties may have serious negative impact on a student's studies and day-to-day life.

If a student raises financial concerns with you, or if you are concerned, you should encourage students to contact the Student Advice Team to discuss their concerns.

Undergraduate students:
Government financial support: For a check on what government funding students are entitled to, there is an online calculator at https://www.gov.uk/student-finance-calculator. Most students will be eligible for tuition fee loans, and full-time students also able to access maintenance loans.

You can find the most up to date information on the Student Services website: http://www.bbk.ac.uk/student-services/financial-support/undergraduate-financial-support

Disabled Student Allowance (DSA) – Home students with a disability, specific learning difficulty or long-term health problem may be eligible. The DSA is in the form of a grant, not a loan and is not means tested. There is a separate DSA application form available from Student Finance England.

Birkbeck Financial Support – undergraduate students on low income may be eligible for other funding from Birkbeck, dependent upon both level of income, intensity of study and the year that they enrolled. Students need to apply on enrolment and provide proof of household income.

Hardship Funds: The College has a Hardship Fund for students whose financial circumstances have changed. This has very specific criteria and therefore students who want to enquire about this should contact the Student Advice Team to enquire about their funding options.

Postgraduate Students

- A UK Government loan scheme for postgraduates is available for full Masters courses.
- Use our postgraduate funding calculator to help you explore your payment options in more detail.

STUDENT ACCOMMODATION

While Birkbeck does not own halls of residence, a number of rooms are reserved every year for Birkbeck students in partner halls of residence. This is mainly in the University of London intercollegiate halls, which are shared between UoL’s Colleges and Institutes.

Applications for nominated rooms in partner halls open at the end of April and close on 25th August. As demand usually exceeds supply, priority is given to overseas students studying for the first time in the UK on full-time degree programmes. These students are guaranteed an offer of accommodation if they have an unconditional offer and apply by 31st May. Applications from other international students and students residing outside of the M25 will also be considered (new students only).

Offers are only made to students with an unconditional offer. Demand for nominated rooms usually exceeds supply; therefore not all applicants will receive an offer.

Birkbeck has an agreement with UNITE (www.unite-students.com), a specialist in providing student accommodation, that entitles full-time Birkbeck students to apply for places within their halls of residence.

A list of private and charitable halls of residence is available on the Birkbeck accommodation webpage, as well as alternative accommodation options such as the UoL Student homes, and flats. http://www.bbk.ac.uk/student-services/accommodation/accommodation-for-full-time-students

Housing for students with disabilities

A number of wheelchair accessible rooms are available from the University of London Housing Services at both College Hall and International Hall. Students apply directly with the University of London Accommodation Reservation Team (info.halls@london.ac.uk). The University of London Housing Services website also list on a number of additional options for students requiring accessible accommodation (see http://housing.london.ac.uk/find-accommodation/options-students-disabilities). If a student is having problems finding accommodation that meets the requirements they need due to their disability, they should contact the Disability Service.

Part Time Students

Most halls only cater for full-time students; with only a small number offering accommodation to part-time students. Most part-time students opt for the private rented sector, flat share or homestay: http://www.bbk.ac.uk/student-services/accommodation/accommodation-for-part-time-students

The University of London Housing Services (www.housing.london.ac.uk) is a student's first point of contact for help in finding private rented accommodation. They can also use this service to obtain advice (including free legal advice) concerning once they have moved in private housing. The University of London Housing Services is located on the 4th floor of Student Central on Malet Street.

Housing for couple and families students

A number of studios and double rooms are usually included in Birkbeck quotas in the UoL intercollegiate halls. Family and couples accommodation are also available in private and charitable halls and in housing associations http://www.bbk.ac.uk/student-services/accommodation/accommodation-for-families-and-couples

Students are advised to apply early as availability is limited.

STUDENT BEHAVIOUR, OR A STUDENT BEING DISRUPTIVE IN CLASS

Abusive, threatening, disrespectful or otherwise disruptive behaviour is not acceptable – it will impact on other students and their studies, and will also affect members of staff. The College has a duty of care to protect staff and students and will support staff in their efforts to deal with disruptive behaviour. If you believe that a student is exhibiting concerning behaviour that may be due to a student’s mental health or other vulnerability Student Services can advise about what support we may be able to put in place.

Policy Framework

The College has to balance the rights of all students. Where student behaviour may be the result of a mental health condition or emotional difficulty we might in the first instance try to support the student to be better able to manage their condition. The College may deal with such behaviour under the Fitness to Study policy or, alternatively, we may see this as a safeguarding issue where the student is viewed to pose a threat to themselves or to others.

The College can take action against misconduct or bad student behaviour under the Code of Student Discipline and we would protect student and staff against bullying or harassment under the College Dignity at Work and Study Policy.

What should you do?

If you believe that the behaviour may be caused by an emotional difficulty or mental health condition you should contact the Mental Health Advisor or complete a Cause for Concern Referral Form and send it to safeguarding@bbk.ac.uk. A Safeguarding Officer will then review the case and advise on the best way to deal with a situation or the appropriate policy or procedure to address the issue of concern.

STUDENT COMPLAINTS

Student complaints are dealt with under the College Student Complaints Policy and Procedure. Academic Appeals are dealt with under the Appeals Policy and Procedure (Taught or Research). The College complaints process applies to enrolled or recently graduated students (up to 3 months after leaving Birkbeck). Applicants can only make a complaint if they can evidence that the Admissions Policy was not followed during their application process.

If a student believes that they have not received the service that they would expect from Birkbeck College and would like to make a complaint, in the first instance they should try to raise this with the department or service about which they are making a complaint.

If the student is not able to resolve the complaint informally they can raise a formal complaint by completing a complaints form and sending it to studentcomplaints@bbk.ac.uk or handing a hard copy in to the Student Advice Centre in the main Malet Street building.

Any formal complaint must be accompanied by evidence if possible. Formal complaints are either investigated by an independent investigator, or responded to by the School or Service that the complaint is about. The outcome will be communicated to the student.

If the student feels that the complaint was not handled in line with the policy, or that specific facts were not taken into account by the College when dealing with the complaint, the student can ask for a review of the complaint. This is not a re-run of the complaint itself, but is a chance to review how the complaint was handled. A written response to any request for a review of a complaint will be sent to the student by the Academic Registrar or her/his nominee within 10 working days.

Complaints about harassment or bullying are dealt with through the student complaints policy and procedure, and are guided by the principles of Dignity at Work and Study. The student may wish to seek support from a Dignity at Work and Study contact.

Where a student feels that the complaint hasn’t been dealt with appropriately by the College and has exhausted the College’s internal procedures for complaints, the student can make a complaint to the Office of the Independent Adjudicator for Higher Education within a year of receiving a Completion of Procedures letter from the College. Email: studentcomplaints@bbk.ac.uk

When a student needs representation in a matter concerning the College

If a student wishes to challenge a College decision or practice, if they would like to make a complaint against the College or would in any other way need representation in a matter relating to the College they should be encouraged to see assistance from the Students’ Union. Birkbeck staff are likely to have a conflict of interest in attempting to represent a student against the College, however the Students’ Union is a separate organisation from the College and it employs a full-time Student Advisor to represent students.

STUDY SKILLS

If a student is struggling with academic skills, for example academic referencing or structuring an essay, and you believe they would benefit from additional academic skills development, Birkbeck has face-to-face and online help available.

Online

All enrolled students will have access to the Birkbeck Learning Skills Moodle module. This module brings together the different resources that the College has to help students develop their learning skills while they study. This module provides interactive activities, as well as slides and recordings from academic skills workshops. Staff may access this module by self-enrolling.

In person

Help is available from specialist staff in schools and departments, centrally from the Study Skills team and through the library and IT Services. Workshops and lectures throughout the year. They offer:

- Workshops and events
- Academic writing days
- One to one advice
- English language and academic writing help

THINKING ABOUT WITHDRAWING, INTERRUPTING OR CHANGING STUDIES

Students who are struggling to cope, either for academic or personal reasons, may request changes to their studies. Requests may be more common at times of particular stress during the year, such as when assessments are due or at the end of an academic year.

It is important that students properly understand both the academic and the financial implications of any changes to their studies before making a firm commitment. In the first instance the student should speak to their department about the academic implications of any changes, and to a Student Advisor regarding the funding implications. Student loans, grants or other allowances such as Disabled Student Allowance may be affected by changes in study. Transferring from part-time to full-time or vice versa may also affect entitlements to means-tested benefits or Council Tax reductions.

What should you do?

Before a student commits to any change in studies speak to them to understand why they wish to change or withdraw from their studies. You should explore with the student whether there is any support that might keep their studies on track, whether that be in relation to study skills support, counselling or mentoring or any other support that the College might be able to provide.

- Interruption Studies: Students can interrupt their studies for up to two years during their programme of study. This may either be for a period of two years or non-consecutive shorter periods that add up to a total of two years or less (although applications for a break in studies of less than one term will not be considered). The student should agree a planned return date with the College, and you should try and agree a return to study plan with the student that is followed up by the College in advance of the planned return date.

- Withdrawing from studies: Where a student withdraws from their studies, if they wish to return at a later date, they will need to re-apply and will not automatically be accepted back on to the programme. Outstanding fees will be recalculated based upon the number of full terms that the student has not completed. If a student withdrawing more than 14 days after the start of term they will be charged for fees for the whole of that term.

- Transferring to another programme of study: In order to transfer from one programme of study to another, the student would need the agreement of the department that they are transferring from, and the department (or institution if they wish to transfer to another college or university) that they wish to transfer to. The student should find in advance whether any of their existing credits can be used towards the programme of study that they wish to transfer onto.

- Requesting a change in studies: Once a student has received the appropriate advice regarding their change of studies, to formally request a change students need to notify the College of their intentions via their My Birkbeck page. Student administration will then contact the student about how to proceed. Where students don’t formally request a change of studies, this may mean that they will continue to be charged fees, even if they are no longer attending classes.
