

Institute of the Environment

Birkbeck, University of London

Global warming, the question of sustainability, and globalisation – Birkbeck's Institute of Environment recognises the central importance of these areas

From weekend courses to research degrees – studying with the Institute of Environment will introduce you to cutting-edge issues at the forefront of popular debate, improve your career prospects and broaden your horizons.

The Institute of Environment takes the lead within Birkbeck Schools (Geography, Biology and Chemistry, Management, Economics, Continuing Education) to integrate interdisciplinary environment undergraduate and postgraduate programmes.
