This module equips students with some of the advanced historical research skills necessary to complete an individual, large-scale research project. It is meant to develop project management skills and extend critical analytical skills through the planning and writing of a literature review.