Theorising Gender

Autumn term 2016 (weeks 1-11)
Mondays: 6.00- 8.00pm (6 - 9pm in week 1 & 11)

Note: the module includes one Saturday workshop on Nov.5th

Module convenor: Prof. Matt Cook.  m.cook@bbk.ac.uk

Theorising Gender focuses on gender and sexuality theory and introduces some key concepts, thinkers and histories. It also looks at some of the practical ways in which we might apply these ideas and so at the relationship between theory and methodology in gender and sexuality research. In most sessions there will be a lecture (6:00 – 6:55pm) and seminar (7:05 – 8:00pm). The lectures are designed to provide a broad introduction to an area of gender and sexuality theory and debate. The seminars will allow you to explore the lecture theme in more detail and in critically engaged and applied ways. The two module assignments encourage you to practice and develop these skills further. The module is taught by specialists from across the college, each talking on their area of expertise and interest.
