Searching for theses on the Library catalogue

Birkbeck PhD and MPhil theses from 1980 onwards are on the catalogue. If you require further details of a pre-1980 Birkbeck thesis, please ask at the Enquiry Desk. You will need to know the author and the subject area of the thesis.

Searching by author and title: If you know the author and title of a thesis, use the Author and Title search, entering the author's surname and a distinctive word from the title. If just the author or title is known, use the Author Alphabetical or Titles Alphabetical searches from the drop down menu. Title Keyword searches can also be carried out in the Advanced search screen.

Searching by subject: NB. The following subject search is only comprehensive for theses from 1987 onwards. To find a thesis submitted to a particular Birkbeck department, select Subject Keyword. Enter the department and "theses" and click on , e.g. enter "biology theses" to retrieve a list of theses submitted to the Biology department from 1987 onwards.

Searching by shelfmark: To look for theses held for a particular year, choose Shelfmark in the Advanced search screen.

- For the years 1981-1986 inclusive, records are prefixed by 3/, for example 3/1984
- For 1980 and for 1987 onwards, theses records are prefixed by THESES/, for example THESES/1993

Other UK theses

Index to Theses provides bibliographic references to all theses published by British and Irish universities, with coverage dating back to 1716. Almost all entries from 1986 onwards, as well as some from the period 1970-1985, include abstracts.

You can check Birkbeck and other University of London theses on Index to Theses by selecting, e.g. ' London, Birkbeck College ', in the University option of the Simple Search.

If you wish to order a doctoral thesis that has been awarded by a British University, you need to go to the British Library's Electronic Theses Online System \(EThOS\) web site to request a digital copy online. The British Library EThOS web site allows individual researchers to access and download e-theses awarded through UK Higher Education institutions, free of charge (in most cases) to the end user. To learn more about how to obtain access to these electronic theses, click here.

Please note, if the thesis is not awarded by a UK university (i.e. overseas), please see full details of what is obtainable via inter-library loans.
