Course aims

Main Aims: This programme provides a rigorous postgraduate education in the general area of business management in a domestic or an international environment.

Specifically, the programme provides students with a critical research-based knowledge and expertise of a broad range of key issues in domestic and international business management at postgraduate level and the opportunity to focus on specific areas of study according to their personal interests or career requirements. These areas include economics and finance, marketing, employment relations and human resource management, business ethics, globalisation and development.

The MSc Management with International Business programme is offered both on a part-time and a full-time basis, and instruction is provided during evenings. The compulsory elements provide core training in principles of domestic and international business management and research methods. We place emphasis on developing the necessary research skills to understand critically and contribute constructively to research in the field of domestic and international business management.

How you will learn

Your learning and teaching is organised to help you meet the learning outcomes (see relevant section below) of the course. As a student, we expect you to be an active learner and to take responsibility for your learning, engaging with all of the material and sessions arranged for you. Each course is divided into modules. You will find information on the virtual learning site (Moodle, see Academic Support below) about each of your modules, what to expect, the work you need to prepare, links to reading lists, information about how and when you will be assessed.

Your learning for this course will be organised around the activities outlined below.

Teaching on this course is a combination of lectures (pre-recorded) and seminars. Lectures are designed to provide you with an outline or overview of the topic, to engage you with the material and direct you to other resources. They are a springboard for your own learning. Seminars are group sessions where you will be asked to contribute to discussion or group work around the topic, with material set in advance for which you need to prepare.

How we will assess you

The course will use a variety of assessment methods. Assessment is used to enhance your learning rather than simply to test it. For most of the modules associated with this course, your assessment will be through the following types of assessment.

Essays which will develop in length and expected complexity as you progress through your studies, quizzes and multiple-choice questionnaires, practical assessments (of your work in a lab/studio), case studies, problems to solve.

Learning outcomes (what you can expect to achieve)

'Learning outcomes' indicate what you should be able to know or do at the end of your course. Providing them helps you to understand what your teachers will expect and also the learning requirements upon which you will be assessed.

On successful completion of the course, you will have

Subject Specific:

- A critical understanding of domestic and international business management in relation to the related fields of management, business, and organisation studies.
- A critical awareness of current research and research issues in a selection of specialist topics within the field of domestic and international business management.
- A critical and thorough understanding of a broad range of qualitative and quantitative social science research methodologies, their epistemological underpinnings, and their specific application in management and business research methods.
- Critical thinking and independent judgment to confront a whole range of issues in domestic and international business management, both in conceptual and practical terms.

Intellectual:

- The ability to analyse both quantitative and qualitative data.
- General transferable cognitive skills in analytical and critical reasoning, including the ability to understand abstract ideas and relate these to practice.

Practical

- An understanding of research design and the formulation and analysis of research questions.
- The ability to conduct an independent research investigation in an academically rigorous and ethically responsible way, selecting and employing sound research methods appropriate to the topic of study and relating the study to both existing research in the field and to practical real-world problems.
- Bibliographic skills, including the ability to conduct literature searches using electronic databases such as the Social Science Citation Index.

Personal and Social:

- Practical transferable communication skills, including in presentation, discussion and writing.
- Practical transferable planning and organisational skills.

Careers and further study

You will find Management with International Business graduates in the following kinds of roles: domestic and international business analyst and manager; consultants in the private and public and sectors; working for organizations in the public and private sector, including international organisations.

The MSc Management with International Business also provides a strong foundation for PhD research in the area.

Birkbeck offers a range of careers support to its students. You can find out more on the careers pages of our website.

Academic regulations and course management

Birkbeck's academic regulations are contained in its Common Award Scheme Regulations and Policies published by year of application on the Birkbeck website.

You will have access to a course handbook on Moodle and this will outline how your course is managed, including who to contact if you have any questions about your module or course.

Support for your study

Your learning at Birkbeck is supported by your teaching team and other resources and people in the College there to help you with your study. Birkbeck uses a virtual learning environment called Moodle and each course has a dedicated Moodle page and there are further Moodle sites for each of your modules. This will include your course handbook.

Birkbeck will introduce you to the Library and IT support, how to access materials online, including using Moodle, and provide you with an orientation which includes an online Moodle module to guide you through all of the support available. You will also be allocated a personal tutor and provided with information about learning support offered within your School and by the College.

Please check our website for more information about student support services. This covers the whole of your time as a student with us including learning support and support for your wellbeing.

Quality and standards at Birkbeck

Birkbeck's courses are subject to our quality assurance procedures. This means that new courses must follow our design principles and meet the requirements of our academic regulations. Each new course or module is subject to a course approval process where the proposal is scrutinised by subject specialists, quality professionals and external representatives to ensure that it will offer an excellent student experience and meet the expectation of regulatory and other professional bodies.

You will be invited to participate in an online survey for each module you take. We take these surveys seriously and they are considered by the course team to develop both modules and the overall courses. Please take the time to complete any surveys you are sent as a student.

We conduct an annual process of reviewing our portfolio of courses which analyses student achievement, equality data and includes an action plan for each department to identify ongoing enhancements to our education, including changes made as a result of student feedback.

Our periodic review process is a regular check (usually every four years) on the courses by department with a specialist team including students.

Each course will have an external examiner associated with it who produces an annual report and any recommendations. Students can read the most recent external examiner reports on the course Moodle pages. Our courses are all subject to Birkbeck Baseline Standards for our Moodle module information. This supports the accessibility of our education including expectations of what information is provided online for students.

The information in this programme specification has been approved by the College's Academic Board and every effort has been made to ensure the accuracy of the information it contains.

Programme specifications are reviewed periodically. If any changes are made to courses, including core and/or compulsory modules, the relevant department is required to provide a revised programme specification. Students will be notified of any changes via Moodle.

Further information about specifications and an archive of programme specifications for the College's courses is available online.
