14. Programme Rationale & Aims

This programme provides a one-year qualification in Portuguese and Brazilian Studies. It is designed to appeal to two main groups of students:

a) Those who wish to refresh their knowledge of Portuguese and Brazilian Studies after a period of no contact with the area. As such, this programme would be suitable for language teachers, for example, with a BA in the corresponding language area.

b) Those students from a variety of disciplines who wish to embark on our MA/MRes Spanish, Portuguese and Latin American Cultural Studies, who need to familiarise themselves with the fields of cultural history and cultural critiques of Spain, Portugal and Latin America. The programme will allow students to increase their knowledge of the above areas as well as improve their research and study skills. As such, this programme would also be suitable for international students seeking to do a year abroad, after completing an appropriate BA programme in their own country.

The programme will also allow students to work on Portuguese language skills.

15. Entry Criteria

Applicants will normally have a first degree in an appropriate subject and will be expected to have language skills in Portuguese equivalent to A-level + 1 year or C1 (CEFR), also equivalent to a pass in Portuguese 4 (ARIB11955).
Learning Outcomes

*NB these outcomes are part of the LOs for BA Spanish, Portuguese and Latin American Studies (UBAIBLAS_C), to which this programme relates.

Learning, teaching and assessment methods

Language modules are taught using a variety of methods and materials from a wide range of media. Portuguese 5 is the only language module that forms part of this programme. It is assessed through course work which includes a project and other tasks as well as oral and written in-class assessments.

Literature and culture modules are taught in either English or Portuguese. While different teaching methods are employed, normally a a mixed-mode delivery is used: part lecture, part student activity either singly or in small groups, part open discussion. The range of methods deployed is effective in retaining students’ attention after a day’s work. Varied use is made of the full range of available support materials and technologies, including Moodle. Supervised group and pair-work and short student presentations serve to vary the pace of classroom activity. Presentations also offer the opportunity for formative feedback, and may be used to prepare a written assignment.

Most level 6 content modules are assessed by means of 2 essays (Essay 1 – 2500 words, 40%; Essay 2 (3500 words, 60%) aimed at fostering independent learning and the developing of appropriate research skills. Coursework is intended to facilitate students’ learning by providing them with opportunities for professional applications as well as module-specific expertise. Through coursework assignments students are also given structured feedback throughout the year. Students are given clear assessment criteria early on in each of the modules. They therefore know what to expect and what aspects of their work will be evaluated.

Project, Spanish, Portuguese and Latin American Studies (approximately 8000 words) is a research module that allows students to explore in depth a topic of their interest, under a lecturer’s supervision.

Programme Description

Students need to obtain 120 credits at Level 6 for the award of this Graduate Diploma. The modules are taken over the course of one year and there is one compulsory module: Project, Spanish, Portuguese and Latin American Studies.

Students can choose options from the available range of Level 6 modules, including Portuguese 5 (please see indicative list below, Section 19).

Programme Structure

Full time programme: Portuguese 5, Project, Spanish, Portuguese and Latin American Studies, + any 2 level 6 modules (or equivalent to 60 credits) from the modules offered in Portuguese & Brazilian Studies in any given year. An indicative (not exhaustive) list of options is provided below.
