14	Programme Rationale &amp; Aims
	Rationale: Recent years have seen a surge of public and academic interest in political economy perspectives across a host of fields. Within Law and Criminology, there has been a growing debate about nature of the intersections between the economy, crime and punishment, whilst interest in the relationship between property, trade, law and regulation continues to expand. This programme provides a unique cross-disciplinary platform for students to critically explore these and related themes through a carefully curated array of modules delivered by experts in political economy from across the fields of Law, Business and Politics. Aims: The programme aims to equip students with an advanced understanding of the range and intricacy of thematic and methodological issues involved in political economy analysis raised by scholarship from different disciplinary perspectives, and aims to help students develop the skills and confidence to order and critically evaluate complex cross-disciplinary theories and debates. The co-taught cross-School module that stands at the heart of this programme provides an exciting opportunity to open horizons and challenge preconceptions about the scope and significance of political economy today. As with the School's LLM/MA in Criminal Law and Criminal Justice programme, this programme is offered with an LLM/MSc award, the selection of which will depend whether the option modules chosen are legal.

15	Entry Criteria
	Minimum entry requirement is a 2:2 honours degree in Law, Criminology, or a related discipline in the humanities or social sciences. Degrees from overseas institutions must be equivalent to a second class honours degree.

	Other relevant qualifications and appropriate professional experience and training are welcome. English language requirements: a minimum of 7 in the IELTS (International English Language Testing System), with a minimum of 6.5 in the subtests.
16	Learning Outcomes The programme will seek to foster amongst students taking it: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• advanced understanding of the range of thematic and methodological issues involved in political economy analysis raised by different disciplinary perspectives;</li> <li>• advanced understanding of the significance of political economy perspectives within different disciplines;</li> <li>• advanced understanding of the complexity of political economy perspectives within and across different disciplines.</li> <li>• ability to order and critically evaluate current research and advanced scholarship in complex cross-disciplinary debates and theories about issues of political economy;</li> <li>• ability to critically evaluate methodologies employed in political economy research;</li> <li>• originality in the application of pertinent knowledge, together with a practical understanding of how established techniques of research and enquiry are used to create and interpret knowledge;</li> <li>• an awareness of the contested nature of knowledge claims within and across different disciplines in relation to the field;</li> <li>• an ability to deal with complex issues of political economy both systematically and creatively;</li> <li>• an ability to communicate their learning and conclusions clearly to specialist and non-specialist audiences;</li> <li>• self-direction and originality in tackling and solving problems;</li> <li>• the ability to substantiate arguments they raise in their written work by reference to pertinent theoretical and empirical political economy literature and other pertinent sources;</li> <li>• initiative, personal responsibility, and independent learning;</li> <li>• constructive and substantive engagement with peers;</li> <li>• confidence in the subject-specific, intellectual and practical learning outcomes they achieve.</li> </ul>
17	Learning, teaching and assessment methods Learning: through active participation in the annual CPEIS workshop, weekly term-time seminars and independent study. Teaching: primarily through seminars and the annual workshop, but also using Moodle's online forum to provide students with appropriate materials and a space to share details of other pertinent publications and events. Assessment: Learning for each module will be assessed by a 4,000-word essay, except for the compulsory research project, which requires the submission of an 8,000-word paper.

	A combination of essay and alternative assessment will be proposed for the new Research Methods module.

18	Programme Description
	This programme provides a unique opportunity to undertake study in political economy from experts across fields of Law, Business and Politics at Birkbeck. Students take 3 compulsory modules: a cross-school module 'Perspectives on Political Economy', a Law School module providing training on 'Critical Methods in Law &amp; Society', and a Law Masters Research Project module which entails writing a 8,000-word supervised research paper on a pertinent topic of their choice. In addition, students can choose from a wide array of carefully curated political economy modules from across Law, Business, and Politics, taking a preponderance of modules from Law overall so as to maintain the core 'Law' character of the programme. Students also participate in a one-off cross-School workshop at the start of their studies, which provides them with an appreciation of the underlying conceptual coherence that unifies the diversity of approaches that feature in the programme.

21	Student Attendance Framework – in brief
	The full version of the 'Student Attendance Framework' is available http://www.bbk.ac.uk/mybirkbeck/services/rules/Attendance-Framework.pdf . Principle Consistent and regular student attendance in class (or equivalent) promotes and affords student success. Inconsistent and irregular attendance is less likely to result in student success and is consistent with lower marks and degree classifications being achieved and awarded. Attendance expectation Birkbeck, University of London expects you to consistently attend all timetabled sessions, including lectures, seminars, group and individual tutorials, learning support sessions, workshops, laboratories, field trips, inductions and demonstrations. E-Registers All Birkbeck students are issued with student cards. Students are expected to take them to classes and to assessment venues and to present them to a member of staff if requested. This is for the purpose of identifying Birkbeck students.

22	Student Support and Guidance
	All Birkbeck students have access to a range of student support services, details can be found on our website here: http://www.bbk.ac.uk/student-services

23	Methods of Enhancing Quality and Standards
	The College has rigorous procedures in place for the monitoring and enhancing its educational provision. This includes regular monitoring of programmes drawing on feedback from various sources including external examiner's reports, student feedback, student achievement and progression data. In addition, departments are reviewed every four to five years through the internal review process that includes external input. For more information please see the Academic Standards and Quality website http://www.bbk.ac.uk/registry/about-us/operations-and-quality .
