14	Programme Rationale & Aims
	The aim of the MSc Sport Marketing is to introduce students to the role and function of marketing within the context of the sport industry. It provides a comprehensive introduction to a range of generic marketing subjects and looks at how the principles and processes of marketing apply to the sports industry. The sport marketing programme of study links theory and practice, and will be of benefit to those individuals that either have already acquired an appreciation of marketing and wish to develop further insights into the subject; to develop their understanding of marketing within the sport industry; and to use the knowledge gained to embark on a marketing or marketing related career within the sport industry. Students address a number of relevant issues such as how marketing's role can be applied to sport and sport organizations with special emphasis on service marketing's '7 Ps' for example, and understanding how sponsorship strategies represent suitable options for marketing communication plans. Students will be introduced to sport and consumer buyer behaviour, managing brands, and developing communications strategies. The dissertation allows students to do an extended piece of research applying theories and concepts within marketing to the sport industry. Students will find the programme of study up-to-date, intellectually inspiring and relevant. Critical thinking and problem focused decision-making will be key components of the programme of study.

17	Learning, teaching and assessment methods
	The teaching and learning strategy on the MSc Sport Marketing allows the needs of mature students that undertake either full-time or part-time study, as well as highly motivated younger students without work experience, to gain up-to-date knowledge which enhances their career prospects. The planning of the programme of study has taken into account the need for evening lectures and seminars to be adequately scheduled; an acceptable workload and its distribution throughout the terms; and the need for accurate information which is in the form of details in the postgraduate handbook, which acts as a guide and which supports independent learning. The eight taught modules that make up the MSc Sport Marketing are taught over a nine-week period. They comprise three-hour weekly sessions comprising face-to-face lectures and a seminar activity. The learning outcomes for each module and lecture are demonstrable and functional so that students will understand what is expected of them and focus their learning activity. Transparent learning outcomes will also help the tutor to align teaching and assessment with these learning outcomes. The face-to-face lectures provide an overview of the relevant issues, supported by the seminars which involve group work and student presentations, and provide the opportunity for interaction and discussion to encourage deeper learning and a more in-depth exploration of the problems and issues. The assessment for each module will vary and includes a mix of coursework, exams, marketing reports, group presentations, and a dissertation. All forms of assessment require students to think logically and to adopt an analytical approach to answering the question. It can be argued that the assessment is balanced and all timetabling takes into account the fact that those students with specific needs, have their needs taken into account and they are not disadvantaged in any way. The pass mark is 50% for the combined course work and unseen, formal examination. Each student is allowed one re-sit.
