14	Programme Rationale &amp; Aims
	BA Global Politics and International Relations: This programme aims to provide students with the main theoretical, conceptual and empirical skills required for understanding and explaining contemporary global politics and international relations. Its compulsory modules focus on: the history of the state and the international system, the contemporary international political and economic system, the major theories of global politics and international relations, and the relationship between war and global social relations. In line with the interdisciplinary nature of the Department of Politics, the programme draws on a wide range of resources from political theory and philosophy, political science, and the traditions of political and historical sociology. BA Global Politics and International Relations with Foundation Year: For the BA Global Politics and International Relations with Foundation Year programme, the purpose of the Foundation Year is to prepare students for successful completion of their undergraduate degree. The Foundation Year (one year FT or two years PT) provides students the opportunity to explore their interests and build on their study skills, and on successful completion of the Foundation Year, students may progress onto year one of the PT or FT programmes. The curriculum for the ‘with foundation year’ programme after the completion of the foundation year modules is the same as the full-time or part-time BA programme. Students who successfully complete the versions of the degree programme ‘with foundation year’ are awarded the same final degree title as students on the full-time or part-time degree routes.

15	Entry Criteria Students who have recently taken A-level qualifications will require 1 A and 2 B’s at A-Level (or UCAS tariff points 120 - 128 ). Students who fail to achieve these grades may still be considered for entry if they demonstrate the required level of intellectual commitment and potential. Birkbeck welcomes applicants without traditional entry qualifications as we base decisions on our own assessment of qualifications, knowledge and previous work experience. We may waive formal entry requirements or consider alternative qualifications based on judgement of academic potential. BA Global Politics and International Relations with Foundation Year This programme is designed for people who can demonstrate the ability and motivation to complete the BA Global Politics and International Relations but who do not currently meet the entry criteria for direct entrance onto the degree. Applicants will often be invited for interview to discuss their interests and future plans, and to assess their needs and aptitudes. For those students who already have Level 3 qualifications the expectation is that they will have qualifications equivalent to 48 UCAS tariff points. Given that students on the foundation year will be enrolled on degree programmes, applicants will be offered a place only if there is significant evidence to suggest they have the ability to complete the full degree.

17	Learning, teaching and assessment methods Teaching takes place in lectures and seminars. In seminars, a variety of methods are employed to engage students, including student presentations (individual and group), small group discussions, debates and so on. Lectures are supported by a detailed coursebook for each module that indicates relevant reading and guides further private study. Web-based resources are used to facilitate access to reading and other course materials. Assessment is through coursework (essays) and examinations. Written feedback on essays is provided within three weeks of submission, and students have the opportunity to clarify any feedback by contacting their lecturers and seminar leaders.
