14	Programme Rationale &amp; Aims
	Programme aims: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• To provide students with a flexible postgraduate programme in Geography which can be tailored to their individual interests and aptitudes</li> <li>• To provide students with detailed and sophisticated knowledge about a range of social and environmental processes relevant to the contemporary world</li> <li>• To provide students with up to date knowledge about the academic discipline of geography and how knowledge is created within the discipline.</li> <li>• To equip students with the skills and knowledge needed to carry out robust independent research at postgraduate level</li> <li>• To provide a range of learning experiences and teaching approaches that enable students to gain confidence, work independently and gain work-relevant skills.</li> <li>• To provide access to postgraduate geography study to students with a wide range of backgrounds and professional experiences</li> <li>• To develop self-reliance and self-confidence through working independently and with others.</li> </ul> Programme rationale: The Department of Geography, Environment and Development Studies offers a range of Masters level programmes but some students would like greater flexibility in their choice of modules and to choose modules from across existing MSc programmes. The MSc Geography offers this flexibility drawing on existing expertise and teaching within the department. It is a flexible, yet coherent, programme which would enable anyone wanting to study geography at postgraduate level at Birkbeck to find a course which would suit them.

15	Entry Criteria
	Normally an undergraduate degree at 2:2 or above or equivalent professional experience
16	Learning Outcomes
	On completion of this programme, students will be able to demonstrate the following skills and knowledge: <ul style="list-style-type: none"> <li>• Up to date knowledge of current issues in the discipline of geography</li> <li>• Understanding of key concepts in geographical research and the ability to communicate them effectively.</li> <li>• In depth knowledge of the process of research design and the selection of research methods.</li> <li>• Appropriate skills to carry out a piece of independent research in the field of geography, including the design of appropriate research instruments (e.g. questionnaires, interview schedules or identification of field sites).</li> <li>• The ability to synthesize and critique relevant academic journal articles and to discuss them in person and in writing.</li> <li>• The ability to participate in class discussions in a collegial and constructive manner</li> <li>• The ability to plan work effectively</li> <li>• The ability to complete work in accordance with deadlines</li> <li>• The ability to communicate appropriately with a range of audiences.</li> </ul>
17	Learning, teaching and assessment methods
	Teaching will take place in lectures and seminars and through dissertation supervision. Substantive content will also be delivered through the Moodle Virtual Learning Environment. Student learning, as well as taking place within formal face-to-face sessions, will involve reading and assimilating the considerable literature and engaging with key experts and stakeholders in guest sessions within the programme. Students will also work on their dissertations independently and will learn independently through guided reading.
18	Programme Description
