14 | Programme Rationale & Aims

The MA History of Art seeks to develop historical and critical skills in the study of selected aspects of art, architecture, design and theory. There is an emphasis on historiographical awareness and critical debate rather than on comprehensive survey. Many of our graduates undertake further postgraduate work or progress to careers in arts-related fields.

Aims:

The programme aims to:

- Enable students to develop skills involved in dealing with visual and textual materials
- Enhance students' understanding of critical debates and traditions
- Encourage intellectually independent exploration of historical and critical issues.

¹⁵ Entry Criteria

2.2 degree in a relevant subject or equivalent (for example, professional experience).

For students with a degree in a subject other than history of art, the one-year part-time Graduate Certificate in History of Art and Architecture can be used as a conversion course. Students who successfully complete the Graduate Certificate with Merit will be guaranteed a place on this programme.

16 Learning Outcomes

On successful completion of the MA History of Art, students are expected to have:

Subject Specific

- Developed at postgraduate level acuity in observing visual culture
- Developed enhanced understanding of this visual culture within the social and cultural context of its production
- Engaged constructively in current debates concerning the discipline and its changing nature.

Intellectual

- Ability to select and acquire relevant visual and textual material and evidence and to analyse, present and interpret this as appropriate within the context of the course
- Ability to select and develop appropriate historical and theoretical methodological frameworks and approaches
- Ability to understand advanced abstract material and demonstrate critical awareness and distance

Practical

- · Ability to debate in an atmosphere of open discussion
- Ability to undertake short and extended-length academic writing
- Ability to communicate ideas effectively, both in writing and verbally

On successful completion of the MA History of Art with Curating, students will additionally demonstrate:

- A solid grasp of key issues in curating practice
- Foundational skills in curating practice
- Insight into the different working practices of various museums and galleries
- Ability to research and test ideas for exhibitions
- Skills in research, writing, and documentation that are specifically geared to a museums or galleries context

On successful completion of the MA History of Art with Collections Management, students will additionally demonstrate:

- A solid grasp of key issues in collections management
- Foundational skills in collections management

- Insight into the different working practices of various museums and galleries
- Skills in research, writing, and documentation that are specifically geared to a museums or galleries context

17 Learning, teaching and assessment methods

The standard format for teaching is a combination of lectures and seminars and one-to-one tutorials.

Lecturers present an overview of the main issues attached to the week's subject area, pointing students in the direction of required reading as well as further reading and research.

The seminar component of each session enables students to explore ideas and methods, to discuss both the required reading and the results of personal research and study, and to refine their own skills of argument, communication and presentation. Seminars may include structured or open debate, a close analysis of textual or visual material, small group discussions and task based work. Participation in seminar discussion is very important in all parts of the course. Classroom based work is supported and enhanced by visits to archives, museums and galleries.

As the MA progresses students are expected to become increasingly independent researchers. This is reflected in the fact that both the research exercise and dissertation are largely self-defined rubrics (with guidance from academic members of staff).

Further support and expansion of students' areas of interest comes in the form of tutorials, arranged by mutual agreement with the lecturer, allowing students to discuss issues on a one-to-one basis, especially in relation to essays, research exercise and dissertation.

Work on the dissertation is further enhanced by work-in-progress seminars in the summer term.

Additional handouts and moodle resources will direct students towards supplementary information and reading.

Research seminars, symposia and lectures delivered by relevant guest speakers provide students with an opportunity to engage with current developments and debates in the field.

18 | Programme Description

Students take the compulsory module 'Frameworks: Histories and Theories of Art, Architecture, Photography', two option modules, a research exercise, and a dissertation.

Full-time students take 'Frameworks: Histories and Theories of Art, Architecture, Photography' and the first option module in the autumn term and the second option module in the spring term. Then they either take the research exercise in the spring term and work on their dissertation from the summer term OR they take a work placement in the summer term and begin work on their dissertation from the spring term.

In Year 1, part-time students take 'Frameworks: Histories and Theories of Art, Architecture, Photography' in the autumn term, the first option module in the spring term, and the research exercise OR the work placement in the summer term. In Year 2 they take the second option module in the autumn term, and work on their dissertation from the spring term.

'Frameworks: Histories and Theories of Art, Architecture, Photography' provides a postgraduate-level introduction to current theoretical and historiographical issues in the study of the discipline.

Option modules allow students to pursue specific interests and areas of research in selected topics from the Italian Renaissance to the present.
